

Tim Stanley is Senior Vice President of Development for the Irvine Company Apartment Development division. Since joining the company in 2010, Mr. Stanley has been responsible for overseeing all aspects of apartment development for the Company's residential projects in Northern California. This includes land acquisitions, entitlements, development, design, construction and delivery of multi-family communities.

Mr. Stanley has practiced in the field of residential construction and development for over 25 years. He has represented both public and private developers during that span of time in the creation of single family and multi-family communities all over the Bay Area and in Southern California. In addition, he has extensive experience with mixed-use and transit oriented development projects.

He received a Bachelor's of Science degree in Civil Engineering from the University of California, Berkeley and a Masters in Business Administration degree from the Anderson School of Management at the University of California, Los Angeles.